

RECRUITMENT FRAUD

Cable & Wireless Communications Plc has been made aware of bogus job adverts being placed on job search websites purporting to be recruiting for roles within our company. The bogus recruiters then use for example @Yahoo.com e-mail accounts to correspond with members of the public. Ultimately, we believe that the fraudster will seek personal details or request sums of money be paid to them.

These communications are completely fraudulent and do not in any way have a connection with Cable & Wireless Communications. We have made both the job search websites and Yahoo aware of this issue and have asked them to take action against the people responsible.

Points that may indicate that you are the target of fraudulent recruitment:

- The e-mail communication does not end with a @cwc.com e-mail address
- Misuse of our Cable & Wireless Communications brand
- The e-mail or subsequent correspondence could refer to request for money transfers or personal data.

Vacancies within our company are generally advertised locally within our regional businesses. At a group level, we do not advertise vacancies on our website but utilise the services of specialist recruitment firms.
